Collin with Landry, Waverly & Griffin

*M*y name is Collin and I was 8 1/2 when our triplets were born. I remember how stressful our house was because they cried a lot. Our house is different from my friends' homes because it is a lot LOUDER and more chaotic.

I think that it is kind of annoying when people make a fuss over our babies. They will interrupt us and ask us a lot of questions but they will never really know what it is like to have triplets.

Some of my favorite things to do are play basketball and video games. I also really like cub scouts and listening to music. I also like to play the trumpet and make people laugh- I think I am pretty good at both. When I grow up I would like to own a pet store. I really love animals. One thing I love to do with my parents is have snowball fights! I am glad winter is here and I can not wait to do this again this year. I like to build blocks and go for walks with my little brother and sisters.

When my sisters and brother were born I was afraid that all of my friends would make a big fuss over them but I am really glad that they don't. They are just my friends. One way my parents show me how much they love me and how important I am in our family is by snuggling on the couch with me and having popcorn parties.

Soon to be big sister or brother of HOM: How to prepare?

How did you prepare your toddler for this momentous event? If you were hospitalized prior to your delivery what did you do to help your toddler(s)? What did you do to help them feel involved in the pregnancy (or NICU or newborn period)? How did you prevent or lessen jealousy? And did any of this work? Do you have any advice, thoughts, funny or poignant anecdotes?!
