

Our Cover Families

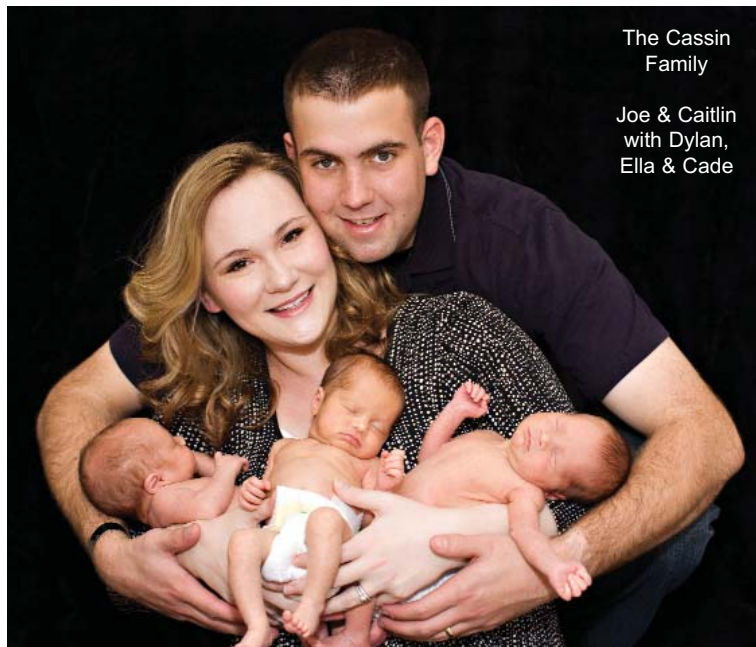

A few months after my husband and I married we received great news: a baby was on the way! Although we were only 21 years old, we were elated. The first two ultrasounds, which confirmed our baby was growing well, heightened our excitement. Then came the third ultrasound, a real shocker—triplets!

My husband, a recent college graduate from VMI (Virginia Military Institute), was to begin training at the police academy very soon. Our lives were REALLY very uncertain: newlyweds, new career, and triplets on the way.

Our uncertainty, however, was soon eased through blessings from above. Our church family rallied, helping us find a triplet stroller; providing diapers for the babies and meals for the family; and giving their time to help with the babies and household duties. They even made sure our dog got walked.

And so it had happened: Dylan Kirk, Ella Cynthia and Caden Joseph were born at 36 full weeks. They were healthy enough to room in the hospital with me during my week of recovery, and to go home with me upon my release.

These photos were taken when our triplets were three weeks old: technically, 39 weeks gestation. Photographer Claudia Akers (www.claudiaakersphotography.com/) took the pictures during our first photo session. Claudia has a passion and patience that allows her to get the best out of what are often uncooperative subjects.

SUPERTWINS is my favorite magazine, hands down. As a mother of triplets, baby magazines which focus on singletons are unfulfilling; multiples are a different game altogether. SUPERTWINS makes me feel “normal,” all the while inspiring and motivating me to be the best “triplet mom” I can be. ♥♥
