

"...when I first embraced the little ones."

I was preparing for my very first meeting with my grandchildren with great anticipation. Words can not express the kind of feeling I had when I first embraced the little ones. My mind was quickly trying to remember infant care again. I wanted to do everything the way their mom, my daughter Manna, requested and how the babies like it.

My camera was on ready for pictures all the time. I wanted to save precious moments of being together so that I can share as much as possible with the rest of the family when I return from my visit back to Hungary. I really liked the fact that besides taking care of the babies, Dave and Manna had some time to go out and rest. It is due to many dear volunteers whom I had the chance to get to know as well. I can only thank them for the many donations from their church, other friends and family.

I really enjoyed meeting their main neonatal doctor and his wife from Riley Hospital. They came to visit the babies at home. We took the quintuplets to their weekly pediatrician appointment and their doctor checked them out thoroughly. A little outing like this with five babies is not a simple thing to do but it went so smoothly. I will board the plane and go home hoping that the plane will bring me back as soon as possible. Since what grandma would not long for being with her little grandchildren, daughter and dear friends? ♥
